

CHAPTER 5 QUIZ: THE VIRTUAL CLASSROOM

1. These types of learners prefer rules and orderliness. They are enhanced by structure.
 - a. Rule-Enhanced Learners
 - b. Supportive Learners
 - c. Individualistic Learners
 - d. Controlling Learners

Answer: a. Rule-Enhanced Learners.

Rule-Enhanced Learners prefer rules and orderliness and are enhanced by structure.

2. These types of learners focus on their interests and explore them in detail. They have the confidence and comfort to work independently toward their goals.
 - a. Rule-Enhanced Learners
 - b. Supportive Learners
 - c. Individualistic Learners
 - d. Controlling Learners

Answer: c. Individualistic Learners.

Individualistic Learners focus on their interests and explore them in detail. They have the confidence and comfort to work independently toward their goals.

3. These types of learners learn best in structured situations where clear direction is provided. They are interested in details and managing them effectively.
 - a. Rule-Enhanced Learners
 - b. Supportive Learners
 - c. Individualistic Learners
 - d. Controlling Learners

Answer: d. Controlling Learners.

Controlling Learners learn best in structured situations where clear direction is provided. They are interested in details and managing them effectively.

4. These types of learners recognize peoples' needs and know how to be of help. They learn best when they can relate to others and understand their needs and interests.
 - a. Rule-Enhanced Learners
 - b. Supportive Learners
 - c. Individualistic Learners
 - d. Controlling Learners

Answer: b. Supportive Learners.

Supportive Learners recognize peoples' needs and know how to be of help. They learn best when they can relate to others and understand their needs and interests.

5. These types of learners make order out of chaos. They see how things can be organized effectively and accomplish a lot in a short amount of time.

- a. Organizing Learners
- b. Idealistic Learners
- c. Interpersonally-Enhanced Learners
- d. Structurally-Enhanced Learners

Answer: a. Organizing Learners.

Organizing Learners make order out of chaos. They see how things can be organized effectively and accomplish a lot in a short amount of time.

6. These types of learners respond well to the spotlight. People provide stimulation and affirmation, and they learn best when they can be expressive and receive recognition for their talents.
- a. Organizing Learners
 - b. Idealistic Learners
 - c. Interpersonally-Enhanced Learners
 - d. Structurally-Enhanced Learners

Answer: c. Interpersonally-Enhanced Learners.

Interpersonally-Enhanced Learners respond well to the spotlight. People provide stimulation and affirmation, and they learn best when they can be expressive and receive recognition for their talents.

7. These types of learners use their insights to design activities that make a difference. They are stimulated by opportunities to make improvements in the world around them.
- a. Organizing Learners
 - b. Idealistic Learners
 - c. Interpersonally-Enhanced Learners
 - d. Structurally-Enhanced Learners

Answer: b. Idealistic Learners.

Idealistic Learners use their insights to design activities that make a difference. They are stimulated by opportunities to make improvements in the world around them.

8. These types of learners follow direction and expect it to be provided. Their experience is enhanced when someone helps structure their time and learning activities.
- a. Organizing Learners
 - b. Idealistic Learners
 - c. Interpersonally-Enhanced Learners
 - d. Structurally-Enhanced Learners

Answer: d. Structurally-Enhanced Learners.

Structurally-Enhanced Learners follow direction and expect it to be provided. Their experience is enhanced when someone helps structure their time and learning activities.

9. This type of learning environment emphasizes private time for thinking. It supports the generation of concepts and ideas. Reading, watching instructional media productions, and listening to lectures are examples of learning activities in this type of learning environment.
- a. The Externalized Learning Environment

- b. The Internalized Learning Environment
- c. The Regulated Learning Environment
- d. The Flexible Learning Environment

Answer: b. The Internalized Learning Environment.

The Internalized Learning Environment emphasizes private time for thinking. It supports the generation of concepts and ideas. Reading, watching instructional media productions, and listening to lectures are examples of learning activities in this type of learning environment.

10. This type of learning environment gives you room to express yourself as an individual. Creative activity and originality are encouraged. In this type of learning environment, students learn through experience and move through learning activities in an exploratory, trial-and-error fashion.
- a. The Externalized Learning Environment
 - b. The Internalized Learning Environment
 - c. The Regulated Learning Environment
 - d. The Flexible Learning Environment

Answer: d. The Flexible Learning Environment.

The Flexible Learning Environment gives you room to express yourself as an individual. Creative activity and originality are encouraged. In this type of learning environment, students learn through experience and move through learning activities in an exploratory, trial-and-error fashion.